Habitat for Humanity Heartland Ontario Announcement from Board of Directors

June 16, 2016 – London, Ontario - The Board of Habitat for Humanity Heartland wishes to recognize the many contributions over the past seven years, of Jeff Duncan. He has now left the organization and we wish him well in his future endeavours.

The Board of Directors is actively recruiting to fill the position of CEO, but until that time, Habitat Heartland will be guided by Interim CEO and past chair Linda Armstrong, who brings her business executive background and nine years of volunteer experience with Habitat for Humanity to a strong team of committed staff.

The organization is well poised to face the significant challenges that are ahead and has benefitted from Jeff's leadership over the years. Looking forward, Habitat Heartland is developing a strategy for growth that will find ways to achieve more for local families. ReStore operations will continue to grow and exceed goals and considerable effort will be made to nurture and expand fundraising capacity and partnerships.

Habitat for Humanity Heartland Ontario's mission is to mobilize volunteers and partners in providing opportunities for families to achieve affordable and sustainable home ownership as a means of breaking the cycle of poverty and strengthening communities.
